

Professional Learning Opportunity:

Dyslexia 101

It is estimated that between 5-20% of students have dyslexia or related literacy learning difficulties. But are we as effective as we could be in supporting these learners?

This one-day, hands-on, professional learning workshop unpacks the facts and figures on dyslexia, then examines the most important challenge to teachers of students with dyslexia – providing evidence-based instruction. We discuss which strategies these learners need, why they work, and guide participants to the resources they need.

Finally, we examine the important adjustments to the curriculum, including assistive technology options, that students require to be successful.
